

D. J. Richmond.—This community will regret to learn that this young gentleman is no more. He died a few days since at Memphis in the Infirmary of Dr. Gilbert, whither he had gone for the purpose of availing himself of the medical skill of that gentleman. He is said to have died very suddenly. After he had retired from his bed, dressed himself and was seated at the fire, he expired sitting up. It is a melancholy duty to us who have known him here, as a man in whom it could almost be said there was no guile, to announce that he has been gathered to the dust. If ever a pure heart beat in a human bosom, one certainly throbed in the bosom of poor Richmond. He came among us from North Carolina, in quest of health and fame, and may be wealth. But he has gone where these are unknown; and all that strangers could do for him was to give him a resting place beneath their soil. Who can picture the scene that must ensue, when the tidings of his death shall be borne to the paternal mansion! The foot steps familiar in that mansion, in bygone days—the return of which was so anxiously listened for, will never resound there again.—The place in the family circle temporarily left vacant, is a vacuum forever. Parents, and brothers and sisters, will be plunged in grief indescribable, and mournful voices will dwell upon the virtues of the deceased one, so beloved in life and now doubly endeared in death. Richmond was an humble christian, but had not attached himself to any church; and those who knew him well, cannot doubt that if any are permitted to rest in the upper Kingdom, Richmond is there.

He came among us as a lawyer, in the practice of which he had just embarked, when the pangs of an incurable disease which had by slow degrees been fastening in his vitals for some years, sunk deep in his heart, and he is no more.—Ed. Lynx.

GENIUS.—It is interesting to see how some minds seem almost to create themselves, springing up under every disadvantage, and working their solitary but irresistible way through a thousand obstacles. Nature seems to delight in appointing the assiduity of art with which it would fear dullness to maturity; and to glory in the vigor and luxuriance of her chance productions. She scatters the seeds of genius to the winds, and though some may perish among the stony places of the world, and some may be choked by the thorns and brambles of early adversity, yet others will now and then strike root, even in the crevices of rocks, struggle bravely on into sunshine, and spread over their sterile birth-place all the beauties of vegetation.—Living

TAK.—The story, in years past, of the directors of the Brandon Bank agreeing to make each "a grab" at the money—having all he could get—add at the dissatisfaction of a portion of them, because one of the number barred his arm to the shoulder and covered it with tar, (thereby getting a double share) was forcibly brought to our mind by reading the following from the N. O. Picayune: Master James McPerson, the young gentleman that distinguished himself on Saturday by insinuating a tarred stick into the exchange office of Mr. White, and taking a $500 bill, was brought before the Recorder yesterday morning for examination. He was, however, remanded till Thursday.

A NAME FOR OUR COUNTRY.—The N. Y. Tribune proposes that our Country shall take to herself the name of COLUMBIA, in honor of the great Discoverer of this Continent, whose name it should should borne, but who has been defrauded of his just due by the ignorance of his contemporaries and the intolerance of succeeding generations. The obstacle which at one time existed in the Republic of Columbia South America, has been removed by the severance of that Republic into three distinct nations, no one of them bearing the name under which they were united nor anything like it.

Culture of Potatoes.—Sidney, Piqua, Ohio, informs us that he successfully cultivates potatoes on the following plan: plant in hills, and when the potatoes are about an inch out of the ground, take a light plough and run it so close to them as to cover them lightly with earth, when they get through this an inch or so, cross-plough them, covering up as before. This mode is stated to be equal to the best hoeing, beside being a great saving of labor. Mr. P. states that he has practised this mode for several years, and has never lost a hill, or had them at all injured by covering.—Albany Cultivator.

IMPORTANT FOREIGN NEWS. A passenger on the stage yesterday morning stated that just before he left Vicksburg, late and important foreign intelligence was received there—

An advance of 1-8d. in the price of cotton in the Liverpool market;

The death of Louis Philippe King of the French;

The overthrow of the Peel Ministry in Great Britain, and the consequent certainty of a repeal of the corn laws;

No accounts of the reception of the president's message in England.

Miss Democrat

Misfortunes are like thunder clouds. Far away, they look black. Overhead they are only gray.

Instead of a grass plat, place green boards in your yard, with flowers painted on them. They will not need watering.

It is said that a girl was struck dumb at Pittsfield by the firing of a cannon. Since then a number of married men, says an exchange, have invited the artillery to discharge their pieces on their promises.

COMMERCIAL.

From the N. Orleans Commercial Times. JAN. 21. 1846.

The Cotton market continues to present the same sluggish appearance before noticed, and prices of the lower qualities in particular are gradually giving way. This declining tendency brought forward some more buyers to-day, and the sales amount to 4500 bales, of which a considerable portion was taken for France and the North. Our quotations are continued.

The arrival of the ship Themis to-night, has placed us in possession of nine days' later news from Liverpool. For the week ending the 6th ult. a decrease of 1d. was noted on the lower qualities of American, but this depression was regained during the following week, with sales of 26,500 bales, chiefly to the trade.
